I often wondered how I would react if a doctor walked in to inform me of the proverbial “bad news” while I sat waiting for test results in extreme pain. That was “put to the test” recently in the Emergency Room when I was informed my Appendix had burst. I have been a Christian since 1972, and I have preached to many over the years concerning faith in situations like this but now I was being put to the test. Many Christians are quick with little quotes like, “To live is Christ – to die is gain,” but while this conveys they are not afraid of death, it does not necessarily mean they want to die right now. This is where I believe most professing Christians are living out their lives. So – how did I react when the doctor told me I had a very serious problem that could prove fatal, and that they are setting up immediate emergency surgery? Actually, my reaction surprised even me! My heart didn’t skip a beat... I didn’t feel a “shot of adrenaline,” I simply asked... Ok do you want me and my wife to drive to the surgical hospital? They said, “no-sir, you’re going by ambulance!” Still... no anxious reaction in me at all! Most everyone is familiar with the following Bible passage whether he or she is Christian or not... Psalm 23:4 (NKJV)

4 Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; For You are with me; Your rod and Your staff, they comfort me. All I can say to my readers is that having faith in God does make a difference in these situations.

As I previously stated, I have been a Christian, and preaching “The Gospel” for many years; I have been trying to enlighten everyone that I can to the fact that Jesus is in fact coming back soon according to all the predictions in the Bible! (We are living in Bible Times!) Some people seem to listen at times, but the majority of people still refuse to even look at the evidence. Many seem to think that by burying their head in the sand, what the Bible predicts is going to happen soon will simply go away and not affect them. It is like a child hiding under the covers thinking the “Boogie Man” can’t get them as long as they’re hiding under the covers. Unfortunately when the remaining Bible prophesies are fulfilled there will be no place to hide for anyone! Biblical Prophets predicted everything we all see happening throughout the world in a daily basis, they predicted these things thousands of years ago in minute detail. Thousands of these prophesies have been fulfilled with 100% accuracy! It is said there are less than 500 Biblical prophesies yet to be fulfilled! My recommendation is that all people reading this to start paying attention to what you are seeing going on around you. Even some Atheists admit that something bad is happening and it is not getting better, nor will it get better. A long time ago I chose to “Walk with the Savior,” as long as you have breath you can choose to do likewise. In light of current events, you might want to, at least consider what the “Word of God” has to say about these current events and those events that will be happening soon. I have taken my recent experience to be my “Wake Up Call,” telling me there is not much time left before all things be fulfilled. God has comforted me through my experiences and He will do the same for you, but only by your request. Today is the day of Salvation... I learned for myself over the past few weeks there is no guarantee you will have a tomorrow.

God Bless All
